“Frederick County is filled with creative employers who go above and beyond to bring out the best in their employees and help them shine,” County Executive Jan Gardner said. “Congratulations to this year’s Best Places to Work. You are leading the way and demonstrating that Frederick County is a great place to do business!”

“For the last eighteen months, our employers have had to rethink and adapt in many ways. It is clear through my conversations with business owners that taking care of their employees has been one of their highest priorities,” shared Michael O’Connor, Mayor of The City of Frederick. “The companies honored this year as a “best place to work” are shining examples, showcasing that treating employees well can multiply into invested families, engaged customers, and vibrant communities. Thank you and congratulations!”
